

Custom Price of Low-Voltage Distribution Boxes in Cambodia

Article Overview

Low-voltage distribution boxes in Cambodia typically range from $50 to $500 per unit, depending on type, capacity, and brand.

Market Overview

Low-voltage (LV) distribution boxes are essential for residential, commercial, and industrial electrical installations in Cambodia. The market includes indoor and outdoor panels, consumer units, and prefabricated switchgear, supplied by both international brands like Legrand and local providers such as Koober Engineering . Prices vary based on capacity (number of circuits), material (metal or plastic), and additional features like surge protection or modular design.

Typical Price Ranges

- o Small residential LV distribution boxes: $50-$150 per unit, suitable for single-family homes or small offices .
- o Medium commercial panels: $150-$300 per unit, often used in shops, restaurants, or small industrial facilities .
- o Large industrial or prefabricated LV switchgear: $300-$500 or more, designed for high-capacity installations and integration with medium-voltage systems .

Prices may also fluctuate based on import duties, shipping, and installation services. Local suppliers often provide turnkey solutions, including site survey, supply, and installation, which can affect the total cost .

Suppliers and Sourcing

- o Legrand Cambodia: Offers a wide range of LV power distribution products, including consumer units, circuit breakers, and DIN rail equipment .
- o Koober Engineering: Provides complete LV switchgear solutions, including installation and compliance with Electricite du Cambodge (EDC) standards .
- o Wholesale suppliers: Platforms like Go4WorldBusiness list multiple verified suppliers for bulk purchases, which can offer competitive pricing for larger orders .

Recommendations

For accurate pricing, it is recommended to contact suppliers directly with your project specifications, including number of circuits, indoor/outdoor use, and required certifications. Bulk orders or long-term
