

Article Overview

Key Ecuadorian manufacturers of fiber optic cable junction boxes include Berth Solutions, LatamFiberHome, and Copperled.

Berth Solutions

Berth Solutions is an Ecuadorian company offering world-class fiber optic solutions, including junction boxes and enclosures. They focus on high-performance, reliable, and future-proof connectivity, integrating the latest fiber optic technologies to meet both local and international standards . Their products are tailored to specific project requirements, ensuring optimal network performance.

LatamFiberHome

LatamFiberHome, established in 2013, is the first optical fiber cable factory in Ecuador and the largest in the Andean region. Located in Duran, Guayas Province, the company produces a wide range of optical cables and related accessories, including fiber optic joint boxes. They have a production capacity of 2 million core km of fiber per year and maintain ISO 9000/14000/18000 certifications, ensuring international quality standards . LatamFiberHome designs cables for indoor, outdoor, and specialized applications, and their enclosures are tested for durability and performance.

Copperled

Copperled specializes in fiber enclosure boxes and splice closures, offering various types of joint closure fiber optic boxes suitable for different network configurations. They provide custom solutions and are recognized for their engineering and manufacturing expertise in optical enclosures . Copperled products are compatible with both local and international fiber optic systems.

Additional Suppliers

Other distributors and importers in Ecuador, such as Mendotel, provide fiber optic closures and accessories including IP65 waterproof mini splice closures, rack-mounted optical distribution frames, and cable organizers . These suppliers complement local manufacturing by offering a range of high-quality junction boxes and installation accessories.
