

Outdoor Cabinet Installation Price List

Article Overview

Outdoor cabinet installation costs typically range from $600 to $5,000 per cabinet, with full outdoor kitchen projects costing $6,000 to $80,000 depending on size, materials, and customization.

Cost Overview

The price of outdoor cabinets depends on material, size, and installation complexity. Common materials include HDPE, stainless steel, teak, and concrete, each with distinct durability and maintenance requirements. HDPE cabinets are highly durable, waterproof, and low-maintenance, making them ideal for coastal or humid climates, while stainless steel offers a sleek, modern look but requires regular cleaning to prevent corrosion. Teak and hardwoods provide a natural aesthetic but need routine sealing, and concrete or masonry cabinets offer permanent, weather-resistant solutions .

- o Individual cabinet costs: $600 to over $5,000 depending on material and assembly type (RTA or pre-assembled)
- o Professional installation: $650 to $1,500 per cabinet, with vent hoods or complex layouts potentially exceeding $2,000
- o Full outdoor kitchen projects: $6,000 to $80,000, with a national average around $16,000, including cabinets, countertops, grills, and appliances

Factors Affecting Pricing

- o Material Choice: HDPE is low-maintenance and durable, stainless steel is corrosion-resistant but requires upkeep, wood is premium but needs protection, and masonry is permanent but labor-intensive .
- o Size and Layout: Larger kitchens with L-shaped, U-shaped, or island layouts increase material and labor costs .
- o Appliances and Features: Built-in grills, refrigerators, sinks, and vent hoods add $500 to $10,000 depending on quality and brand .
- o Site Preparation: Demolition, leveling, and permits can add $500 to $3,000 .
- o Labor and Installation: Labor rates range from $50 to $150 per hour, influenced by project complexity and local rates .

Cost-Saving Tips

- o Opt for pre-assembled or RTA cabinets for DIY installation to reduce labor costs .
- o Use standard-size openings for appliances to allow future upgrades without remodeling .
- o Choose durable, low-maintenance materials like HDPE to minimize long-term upkeep costs .
- o Build on an existing patio to reduce site prep and construction expenses .
