

What are some manufacturers of indoor optical cables in Portugal

Article Overview

OMC, Cablotec, and Altice Labs are key Portuguese manufacturers and suppliers of indoor optical cables.

Key Manufacturers

OMC is a professional cable manufacturer offering a wide range of indoor distribution fiber optic cables, including microcables, micromodule high-density trunk cables, and breakout or distribution cables for risers and horizontal links. Their products are designed for low attenuation, mechanical stability, and easy installation, with coatings resistant to fire, UV, moisture, and crushing, making them suitable for indoor environments such as racks, cabinets, and office pathways (OMC) . Cablotec Cablagens e Sistemas Lda. specializes in connectivity solutions across various industries, including telecommunications. They provide custom prototyping and development services, which can be particularly useful for tailored indoor fiber optic cable applications (Ensun) . Altice Labs focuses on innovative ICT solutions, including Optical Distribution Networks and structured cabling products. Their expertise in fiber optic systems and network technologies positions them as a key player in indoor optical cable manufacturing in Portugal (Ensun) .

Additional Suppliers

Other companies like FastFiber and Lapp Policabos are involved in fiber optic networks and cable distribution. FastFiber operates the largest national fiber optic network and provides FTTH and Dark Fiber solutions, while Lapp Policabos imports and stocks a variety of cables, including fiber optics, supporting advanced technical installations (Ensun) .

Product Considerations

When selecting indoor optical cables, consider:

- o Cable type: Microcables, breakout, or micromodule designs for risers and horizontal links.
- o Fiber count: Options range from 1F and 2F for patch cords to high-density trunks.
- o Coating and protection: Fire-resistant, UV-resistant, moisture-resistant, and crush-resistant coatings.
- o Installation environment: Racks, cabinets, office pathways, or data centers. These manufacturers provide solutions suitable for FTTx deployments, data centers, and structured cabling projects, ensuring reliable indoor optical connectivity in Portugal.
